WEST SIDE ALLIANCE S.C. 2014 EDITION - WEDNESDAY, JULY 23RD

New Zealand Half Point Hot Topic

FIFA administrator Wayne, awarded the All Blacks of New Zealand a half point after the standings were announced Wednesday which moved his team to the #1 seed, 1/2 point over Colombia. Public outcry was halted, because the public was not happy (or impressed) with the Colombian national chant "UN D FEATED". New Zealand ended that spell in what could be a prelude to the final. In other news Coach Griff's Argentina side was thrilled to learn they had an equal shot at the title and moved up their odds to raising the Cup. "We have no wins. But... We are still in this," was the speech delivered at the end of round 3.

UNO-A-CERO: TEAM USA

Team USA has won a string of 1-neil victories under the guidance of coach Chablee earning a new chant amongst Sam's Army and American Outlaws: "Uno-A-Cero".

Raising hands to answer quiz question. Hint: It's Arsenal.

NEW ODDS: ARGENTINA & GERMANY STILL IN HUNT

Argentina Coach Griff and Germany Coach Matt were both seen conversing following the third round of play Wednesday. There is a history of teams at bottom of the table to finals night rise to glory and the two were apparently mapping out that plan for their sides. Meanwhile FIFA produced the new ODDS for the CUP:

2:1 New Zealand gets another 1/2 point; 2:1 Paulo caught in controversy; 100:1 Coach Matt wins Keeper of the Tournament

Dutch players were seen everywhere in Wednesday night's third round. Here they are walking out with the Colombian side in a game they weren't scheduled to play in.

Dutchman Brian rumored in a trade, seen here collaborating with the Americans. Holland and USA are atop the tables. What could this mean for American tactician Coach Chablee?

Coach Paulo just looks like he should be investigated.
